DIRECTOR: LIAM SAINT-PIERRE (Blackburn, ENGLAND, 07/02/1977) Liam's background was in stills photography and as a documentary camera operator, where he worked with the likes of Shane Meadows at Warp Films. With a desire to tell stories, Liam's path naturally led to directing, where his skills as a versatile filmmaker allowed him to create beautiful and intimate imagery across a variety of mediums. His cinematic style mixed with a tender realism and subtle humour translates into different genres, with storytelling always at the heart. Initially this was in documentaries, but a focus on narrative has been translated into music videos, short films and commercial work.
