DIRECTOR: Samuel J. Smith

PRODUCER: Samuel J. Smith

KEY CAST: Kelvin Morris

OVERVIEW: Take an in depth look at the life of a talented Baltimore street artist, who is homeless and sells his work to survive.

DIRECTOR BIOGRAPHY: Samuel J. Smith was born in Nottingham, England to Jimmy Smith & Traci Kelly, and attended West Bridgford School at the primary and secondary level. In 2008, Smith left Nottingham at the age 16 to pursue a basketball career in the United States. Based in Baltimore, Maryland the dream was short lived due to injuries. With this turn of events Smith had to change his focus and channel his energy into a new medium. In the summer of 2016 Smith graduated from Frostburg State University with a B.S. in Mass Communication. It was there he found a passion for film and storytelling, and "Life As a Street Artist" is Samuel J. Smith's first film which was filmed in Baltimore, Maryland. Smith intends to direct and produce a feature length film as his second project in his hometown of Nottingham, England.
